

Ruud

have visited the museum in March plus another couple of places round beijing i will include a copy of my log for your ref .

Datangshan museum no advance warning needed a car with a driver will cost you £60
for the day eg

University museum 09.00
Datanshang 10.30
Great Wall 15.00
Hotel 18.00

if you are staying in a hotel they will fix this up for you

Good Luck

CHINA

Problems abound here, with both the old and new forms of names being used. I have tried to indicate both where confusion is likely to occur.

Note that CAAC (Civil Aviation Administration of China) uses a numerical serialling system like military; their aircraft have not been included.

One F-86 was donated by Pakistan by 00; its location is at present unknown.

Beijing/Nan Yuan Airport (south of city)

Mi-8 4211 was stored here in Oct99. Noted in GI use have been:

4210	Mil Mi-8	Oct99	Feb02
1058	An-12		Feb02
50853	Il-18		Feb02
10995	Y-5		Feb02
CUA-50959	An-24		Feb02

All this stuff is on a disused apron and may be some sort of preservation store !!!

Trident 50050 (c/n 2132) may have come here from Dandong. See Military Museum

Beijing - Aeronautical Institute 37 Xue Yuan Lu, Beijing 100083 (N suburbs of city)

Open Tue-Sun 0830-1130, 1400-1700

Although not a formal museum, this site holds much of interest. Most of the aircraft are in a courtyard at the rear of the premises. There are a couple of sheds which probably hold the aircraft listed as stored.

A few comments on this place. The J-8-II is a mock-up, mostly wood. One of the sheds at the back is full of microlights, the other looks like a classroom and contained the J-6 727 and one more which had most of its panels removed to display its inards.

The IL-14 is ex. CAAC. In general the place is quite run down and there was nobody around that spoke English. It is a real museum ( it says so on the university map ) and it even has a shop. We did not read anything off the Harvard so it is assumed to be the one on your list!!

Beijing - China Agricultural Museum

IL-18 B-228 (ex 50855) is preserved here (95-Apr00).

Two B-25Hs thought to be 43-4120 and 43-4329 are thought to be stored here but have not been physically sighted. The stuff listed as outside is in a courtyard inside the main building and closed from Nov. to April. It is, however, visible through the windows. Also out here was what looked like a J-6, but it was surrounded by tanks etc. In the open area at the front of the building sits a Trident marked as 'B-2207' but according to the airliner experts is really 50050.

Beijing/Xi Jiao

Trident 50057 was stored here in Mar96.
